The Problem:

Automatic Transmission Fluid (ATF) services are often neglected and even when performed, are often incomplete. This can lead to automatic transmission shifting problems and premature repairs or replacement.

90% of automatic transmission failures are due to overheating and fluid contamination.

A typical transmission drain and refill service replaces only 40% of the old contaminated ATF.

- The remainder is trapped inside valve bodies, the torque converter and transmission cooler lines.
- New ATF from a conventional drain and refill service can often loosen damaging sludge and varnish deposits leading to shift problems and

- even transmission failure.
- Automatic transmission replacement can cost $2,000 or more.

Don't let your transmission take you for a ride. Get Wynn's® Transmission Flush Service.

A typical transmission flush replaces only about 40% of the old, contaminated fluid. Wynn's Transmission Flush Service safely removes sludge and varnish deposits and replaces over 95% of the used fluid, then conditioners are added to the fresh ATF to extend ATF life, revitalize seals and O-rings and help maintain smooth shifting.
